VTE EDUCATIONAL SYMPOSIUM: ASSESSING THE RISK AND UNDERSTANDING THE BURDEN

Thursday, 13 October 2016 | 1:00 to 3:30pm ET

Holy Trinity Cathedral
Grand Ballroom
337 East 74th Street, New York, NY 10021

You are invited to attend a free educational symposium spotlighting the important topic of hospital-associated venous thromboembolism (VTE) in honor of World Thrombosis Day on 13 October. Co-hosted by Northwell Health and World Thrombosis Day, join an esteemed panel of leading experts as they discuss the thrombosis disease burden, how a health system can implement routine VTE risk assessments in patients admitted to the hospital, and key evidence-based prevention strategies. This informative event will include three speaker presentations and an engaging panel, plus remarks from a patient ambassador from the National Blood Clot Alliance. CME credit will be available. All are welcome to attend this free event, including physicians, allied health, nurses, urgent care teams, medical students, media, and others.
